What is the Identitarian movement? And why will there be protests against it?

"Identitarian Movement" (short Identitarians or IB) is a name, which is used by several right-wing, racist, anti-Semitic, anti-democratic, nationalist groups in Germany and in other european countries, but also in the USA, Australia and New Zealand. They assume a uniform, self-contained, ethnically homogeneous "European culture" whose "identity" is above all threatened by "Islamization". The theory of "The Great Replacement" which claims that white populations are being gradually replaced with migrants has been at the heart of identitarian campaigns for years. Their aim is to fight "The Great Replacement", calling for "remigration" and "de-Islamization. The group's demands go beyond calls to deport criminals, extremists and rejected asylum seekers, which would be in accordance with migration law. "Remigration" is, in fact, a polite term for the mass deportation of all European residents with a migrant background or non-white skin. The "Identitarians" pretend to be a young and educated movement. Like the "New Right" in general they try to disguise their anti-democratic, anti-Semitic, nationalist and fascist references.

In 2017 was the official opening of the extreme right wing house project in Adam-Kuckhoff-Straße 16 in Halle (near the university campus). Ever since their first public appearance in Halle(Saale), "Identitarians" have repeatedly turned to violence. The connections range ideologically and personnel to the right terror: in his manifesto the assassin of Christchurch (New Zealand) refers to publications of the "New Right". The assassination is the implementation of the new right ideology. In 2017, "Identitarians" chartered the ship "C-Star". With this PR action they tried to criminalize the rescuers on the Mediterranean sea. The Continent's far-right groups know how to distort public perception, drive the political agenda and intimidate journalists. They've disrupted democratic processes and put pressure on politicians to back down on migration policies. The sealing-off of Europe, the tightening of the European border regime and the dismantling of fundamental rights of refugees are also the result of debates being driven from the right.

The "Identitarians" from Halle mobilize nationwide and beyond for the 20th of July 2019 to Halle for a demonstration titled "Defend Europe! It is our home."

What happens on this day? Who organizes the counter-protests?

Stop the Identitarians! For solidarity without borders!

The alliance "Halle gegen Rechts" calls for stopping the "Identitarians" and going out on the streets for solidarity without borders! In doing so, they join those who argue in many places in Germany and Europe to end the isolation and dying on the Mediterranean Sea. Nonviolent and determined they want to protest with a variety of forms of action and solidarity with each other. Let us stop the "Identitarians" together on 20th of July 2019 and let's make solidarity without borders the message of the day!

What ? When? Where?

All the information is under a continuous updating process. The plans, demonstration routes and the timings for the day can still change.

The "Identitarians" have chosen the main station Halle at 12:00 as a meeting place for their demonstration. From there the right wing demonstration will start through the city. There is a possibility that right wing groups will arrive as well in the main train station. The "Identitarians" want to make a street party in front of their house in Adam-Kuckhoff-Straße 16 starting from 4:00 p.m.

There will be counter demonstrations and protests at 12:00 around the main train station, at the campus Steintor and at other places around the city like Riebeck Platz. All the events are legal and registered and every person can participate.

Come along and take a part and join us!

There will be a lot of police in the city in that day and it might happen that you can not move freely throughout the city.

What can I do if I have problems? Should I be scared?

If possible, do not travel or walk alone on this day, but prefer to walk with another person, especially around the main station. Watch each other! Inform your friends about the day!
